Tax Considerations<sup>1</sup> for Market-Linked Certificates of Deposit (MLCDs)

MLCDs, designed to pay proceeds at maturity, have unique tax considerations. While returns above principal at maturity are contingent, investors may be required to account for accrued interest as ordinary income for federal income tax purposes. Commonly referred to as “Phantom Income,” this accrued interest is compounded semi-annually and may generate tax exposure, on an annual basis, for MLCD owners holding the investment within non-qualified accounts.

1. Issuers declare “Comparable Yields” for each individual CUSIP by capturing the yields on fixed rate CDs with equivalent (comparable) maturities. The Comparable Yield is published in the final Prospectus on original issue date.
2. Phantom income is calculated by multiplying the Face Amount of the MLCD by the Comparable Yield (compounded semi-annually), then applied to the number of units owned by the investor.
3. Typically, a 1099-OID is generated and issued to the account owner declaring the amount of Phantom Income accrued during a given tax year.
4. Phantom Income (amount from 1099-OID) is considered ordinary income subject to federal income tax and results in a step-up in cost/tax basis until the sale, exchange, redemption or maturity of the MLCD.
5. Proceeds from the MLCD at maturity may result in an ordinary income gain or loss depending on the performance of the underlier and the amount of accrued Phantom Income.

For specific terms and tax advice, please refer to the offering documents and consult a tax, accounting or legal professional.

Hypothetical example of 3% Comparable Yield on a 5-Year MLCD

Year 1	$30.23	$30.23	$1,030.23
Year 2	$31.13	$61.36	$1,061.36
Year 3	$32.08	$93.44	$1,093.44
Year 4	$33.05	$126.49	$1,126.49
Year 5	$34.05	$160.54	$1,160.54

Hypothetical scenarios at maturity for $100,000 investment

It's Important to Note...

MLCDs may be treated as a “contingent debt instrument” for federal income tax purposes if they are held in a non-qualified account. While an MLCD may not pay interest until maturity, if at all, you may be required to include your charged interest amount each year as income for federal income tax purposes. Purchasers who are not initial purchasers of MLCDs at their issue price should consult their tax advisers with respect to the tax consequences of an investment in CDs, including the treatment of the difference, if any, between the basis in their CDs and the CDs’ adjusted issue price. For specific terms, please refer to the offering documents. For individual tax advice, consult a tax, accounting or legal professional. Market-linked products are intended to be buy and hold investments. There may not be a liquid secondary market and if sold prior to maturity, principal may be at risk. Any return of principal, interest and gains generated is subject to the credit risk of the issuer. For market-linked CDs, the FDIC insures principal amounts up to applicable limits in the event the issuer defaults. Dividends paid on the underlying index are not passed through to the market-linked product.
