

Snowball Autocall Principal Protected Note (PPN)

Autocall PPNs are designed to provide investors with a preset, fixed payment (Call Premium) if the underlier reaches a specified level of performance (Call Level), at indicated observation dates. The structure is automatically called if Call Level is achieved. In which case, the investor is entitled to a full return of his/her initial investment plus a fixed return equal to the Call Premium. As a PPN, the structure also offers full principal protection when/if held to maturity.¹

Observing Underlier Performance To Determine Payoff

- 1 The initial index level is determined on the trade date. That level is used to track underlier performance.
 - 2 The index level is evaluated at the end of each observation period.
 - 3 If the index has grown to a value at or above (meeting or exceeding) the Call Level, the structure is automatically called.
- or
- 4 If the index has not reached the indicated Call Level, in relation to its initial level, the structure would remain intact until at least the next observation date.
 - 5 The Snowball feature freezes the Call Level at its initial value, for all observation periods, while the Call Premium increases for each interval.

or

If not called, at maturity, a stated level of participation is applied to any underlier growth¹.

Proceeds If Called
100% Of Principal + Call Premium

Hypothetical Example ²
Observation Date (Annual)	Call Level (% of initial index level)	Call Premium (% of principal investment)
1	101.0%	7%
2	101.0%	14%
3	101.0%	21%
4	101.0%	28%
5	101.0%	35%
6	101.0%	42%
7	Maturity	Participation

Minimum Value At Maturity = 100% Of Principal

² Hypothetical PPN terms offer 1% initial and subsequent call levels in years 1-6 along with 7% initial call premium increasing by 7% increments during same timeframe. The PPN matures in year 7 and offers defined participation in any underlier growth from its initial level along with full principal protection, if held to maturity.
